

IGA virtual conference November 16, 2021

Goats of the World and World of Goats – Emerging from the Shadow of COVID-19

We are delighted to announce that 119 participants from 41 countries registered for the virtual conference on 16 November 2021. The number of participants during the conference ranged from 70 to 100.

The 10 very interesting oral presentations mainly analysed the impact of COVID-19 by region and country. It also gave a general picture of the current situation in each region and country.

The activities of the IGA during the last 5 years were also presented and the future plans of the IGA were discussed. The International Conference on Goats will be held in Eger, Hungary in 2022 was also introduced.

Last but not least, the IGA Lifetime Appreciation Award was presented to Professor Christopher D. Lu from the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Natural Resource Management - University of Hawaii, USA in the online space.

We thank all 71 participants for their attendance and all speakers for their interesting presentations. We would also like to thank all those who have contributed so far to the E-book that will be published at the end of January 2022. Submission of further scientific papers is still possible until 10 December 2021. Please follow the link for more information about full papers submission here.
